

Reading and Writing Assistant

Concept by Jack Weaver • Design by Arete Design for Synergy Consultants

Millions of people read in bed, either for the pleasure of it or simply because they are bed-bound. We all know the dilemma- how do you hold the book in front of you and yet relax your arms? This Reading and Writing Assistant solves the problem. It mounts to most headboards, shelves, or bedrails, and holds the book on a platen in comfortable viewing range of the reader. The joints of the armature are even strong enough to provide a semi-stable surface for writing with the included felt-tip pen. The integrated flex-neck light can provide an excellent supplement to room lighting.

Reading and Writing Assistant ready for use

Heavy-duty clamp mounts to most horizontal shelf-type surfaces. Other attachment methods could be provided for wall mounting, rail mounting, etc.
